A man belonging to a Hindu religion finds a statue. He gives the statue the shape and of his religion and goes away happily. Later a man belonging to Christian community finds it and he gives it the shape of his religion. Later a man belonging to Muslim community gives it the shape of his religion. But then, the three men realises their mistake and all the three together give the statue the appearance of Mahathma Gandhi, the father of the nation. This gives us the message that we are all one and there is no difference between any religion. We are all Indian and need to be proud to be Indians.

MESSAGE

The message highlighted through this Nukad nadak is that no man must be segregated in the name of caste, creed, colour or religion. It says that we are all Indians and must be proud to be an Indian.
