SUMMARY OF THE EVENT

The department of Biochemistry organized a quiz programme on Environmental Pollution and Climate Change to create awareness among students, Research Scholar, Professionals, and common people across the country from: 06-07-2020 to 08-07-2020. Environmental pollution is one of the most serious global issues. The pollution may be categorized as follows, Air Pollution, Water Pollution, Soil, Land Pollution, Noise Pollution, Radioactive Pollution, Thermal Pollution, these pollutions threatening the environment, humans, plants, animals, and all living organisms. It is an unfavorable situation of our environments, mainly as a consequence of human activities, through direct or indirect effects of the changes in the energy pattern, radiation levels, physical and chemical constitution and abundance of organisms. It is common to both developed as well as developing countries, which attracts the attention of human beings for its severe long-term consequences. Long term effects lead to climate change. The climate of Earth is now changing faster than at any point in the history of modern civilization, mainly as a result of human activities. Global climate change has already resulted in a wide range of impacts across all region of the country. Rising temperatures, extreme weather pattern, shifting wildlife populations and habitats, rising sea level, and a range of other impacts will be seen as the climate changes. During this COVID pandemic lockdown, we successfully in bringing online platform for creating awareness programme to the students and academicians regarding the topic "Environmental Pollution and Climate Change" which is the need of the hour today. The online quiz has no registration fee. A link was given to participate in this knowledgeable event and E-certificate was issued to the winners on their email. We received vast participation from students, Faculty members, Research scholars across the country We appreciate our participants and look forward for their continued interest in our future events.
